Most of us all know that now we have fewer and fewer natural resources. If we don't take action to save the resources, someday we will use them up. The probable and better methods that we can put into practice are 6Rs: reduction, reusing, repair, refusing, recycling and recovery(再生).

First, we need to reduce our waste by using less. When going shopping, we shall buy only what we need and prepare our own bags. Don't buy things just because you want them. Second, reuse the things we have. Try to make a bottle into a vase when we don't need it. Third, when our things are broken, repair them. Fourth, if the things we use will hurt our Earth, just refuse to use them. Finally, we shall recycle glass, plastic and paper and recover energy from kitchen waste and waste oil.

When we don't have the natural resources anymore one day, we will find how important the idea of 6Rs is.

 (A) having a new life in other cities
 (B) buying the things we really need
 (C) using bags that are harmful to our Earth
 (D) take plastic bags from stores
47. ( ) The phrase "put into practice" in the first paragraph means _____.
 (A) it is impossible for us to achieve the goal of 6Rs
 (B) we need more people to use the natural resource

(C) people are trying to move to another stars or planets

(D) we can use these ways to reduce our waste

48. ( ) According to this passage, which of the following is NOT true?

(A) We are running out of our natural resources.

(B) There are six methods to solve the problem of using up our natural resources.

(C) It is convenient to put glass, paper and waste oil together and throw them away.

(D) When we go shopping, we had better prepare our own bags.
