As humans, we communicate more than just by words. Touching is also a way of communication. However, suitable forms of touching are different around the world.

In the United States, a handshake is common, even expected, when we are introduced to a stranger. Moreover, if we are introduced to a person of the opposite sex, we may find ourselves greeted with a hug or a kiss on the cheek.

Nevertheless, not all cultures are comfortable with touching. For example, Islamic culture does not allow any kinds of touching between men and women. Therefore, it is not suitable to shake hands with a person of the opposite sex there. However, touching between people of the same sex is fine for Islam. It is quite common to see two men hugging in greeting.

Moreover, we must be careful about where we touch someone. Many Asian cultures do not touch the head because they believe that the soul lives in the head and a touch may put it at risk. In addition, Islam and Hindus do not touch with their left hands. This is considered an insult because the left hand is used only for the toilet.

Therefore, when we go to other countries, it is best to observe how the locals touch in greeting first. Then, we won't offend their customs.

46. According to the passage, which of the following about touching in the Islamic world is true?

- (A) It is suitable to touch anyone's head.
(B) The right hand is used only for the toilet.
(C) Any touching between men and women is not allowed.
(D) Touching between people of the same sex is not suggested.

47. According to the passage, why do many Asians avoid touching others' heads?

- (A) It is because it will cause damage to their heads.
(B) It is because Asians believe that the soul lives in the head.
(C) It is because Asians are not allowed to touch each other.
(D) It is because the behavior is only allowed between close friends.

48. When it comes to touching, which of the following is true?

- (A) Hindus will never use their right hands to touch others.
(B) A handshake should be fine between Islamic men and women.
(C) Touching between Islamic men should be avoided in greeting because it is offensive.
(D) People need to be careful about where they touch someone.

Gestures are the "silent language" of every culture. We point fingers or move another part of the body to show what we want to say. It is important to know the body language of every country or we may be misunderstood.

In the United States, people greet each other with a handshake in formal introduction. The handshake must be firm. If the handshake is weak, it is a sign of weakness or unfriendliness. Close friends may place a hand on the other's arm or shoulder. Some people, usually women, greet with a hug.

Space is important to Americans. When two people talk to each other, they usually stand two and half feet away. Americans get uncomfortable when a person stands too close. They will move back to have their space. If Americans touch another person by accident, they say, "Pardon me." or "Excuse me."

Americans like to look the other person in the eyes when they are talking. If you don't do so, it means you are bored, hiding something, or are not interested. But when you stare at someone, it is impolite.

49. If you stay in the United States, you should ____.

- A. shake your friends' hands all the time
B. talk to your friends with your eyes looking away
C. stay close to the person you are talking to
D. have eye contact when having a conversation with someone

50. In the United States, people often ____.

- A. shake hands as gently as possible
B. get nervous when you stand too close to them
C. say "pardon me" to each other when they get bored
D. show their friendship by staring at each other
