There’s an old saying, “One man’s trash is another man’s treasure.” This saying couldn’t be more true when it comes to flea markets. A flea market is usually held out of doors, and many people go there to sell second-hand things. These things may seem like trash. However, if you look carefully, you’ll find your treasure.

If you’re an experienced flea market shopper, you will know the most important thing is to arrive early. The best things are often sold out during the first few hours of the market. You should also bring a lot of cash, since most sellers do not accept credit cards or checks. To make your shopping experience an enjoyable one, you should wear comfortable shoes and bring some water. Most importantly, once you find the thing you like, don’t be afraid to bargain. Ask the seller whether he or she is willing to sell it at a lower price politely. This way, you’re more likely to buy things cheaply.
